AMUSEMENT NOTES

"When Dreams Come True" at Barre Opera House, Feb. 25.

"When Dreams Come True," which comes to Barre opera house next Friday night, is by Philip Bartholomae, author of the two farcical success, "Over Night" and "Little Miss Success."

The author has indicated the same originality in the book of "When Dreams Come True" as he did in his farces. He recounts the story of a wealthy young New Yorker who awakens to find his allowance cut off on account of his adventures with a French dancer.

The first act is on ship board, and shows the boy returning for the parental scolding as a steamer passenger. This setting lends itself to many singing numbers, the first ensemble showing a chorus of immigrants of all nationalities indulging in their native songs and pastimes.

A smuggling plot is interwoven in the story, to whom the "Dream Girl" is an innocent party. All sorts of trouble is heaped upon the pair until "dreams come true" in the final act.

A musical comedy cast of more than ordinary ability will be seen in the principal parts, and a chorus of twenty-four capable and sprightly young women, will sing, dance and lend an air of youth and gaiety to the performance. They will also wear some of the most elaborate gowns ever shown on a local stage—adv.

OUR SPLENDID VINOL

Quickly Stopped Mr. Clark's Hang-On Cough

We have seen right here in Barre such wonderful results from the use of Vinol in such cases, that we agree to return the money to anyone who tries it and does not get the same result. Mr. Clark did. He says:

"I used Vinol for a chronic cough and hard cold, which it seemed impossible to get rid of. At night I would cough violently, so I couldn't sleep. I learned about Vinol through a friend who had used it at the house where I am living, and the result of its use in my case was that the hard cold was soon well and the chronic cough disappeared in very short order." F. J. Clark, 9 Pearl street, Amsterdam, N. Y.

It's the tonic iron, the extract of fresh cod livers without oil and beef peptone contained in Vinol that makes it such a successful remedy for chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis. Try it on our guarantee.

Rev. G. P. Fuller, Retired Congregational Clergyman, Died Suddenly.

Rev. G. P. Fuller, a retired Congregational minister, living in the house of Mrs. Emily Burroughs, died suddenly at 10 o'clock Saturday night. Mr. Fuller had been up twice on that day, but when he was taken with this attack of heart trouble, he lived only about 15 minutes. A physician was summoned but he did not arrive in time to give any assistance. Mr. Fuller formerly was the Congregational minister at East Brattle, and while there his health failed and he had a slight stroke, which made it impossible for him to be in active work. He came here to reside something like a year ago. While living here he had been in comfortable health up till two weeks ago, when he had a similar attack, which was relieved.

Refreshments and a social hour followed.

The merchants' meeting and banquet, held at the inn on Thursday evening, was a great success and an enjoyable time. The dinner which was served by Landlord Mann was all that could be desired, and following this, James Hartness gave an address upon "Industries." "The Three R's and Their Relation to the Great Art" was discussed by Supt. G. W. Patterson, and "Agricultural Extension Work in Vermont" was the topic of E. H. Loveland. There were 65 present for the evening. It seemed to be one of the most successful meetings in the history of the association.

SOLONS HURLED INKSWELLS.

Scenes of Violence Enacted in Oklahoma House of Representatives.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 19.—Tumultuous scenes occurred in the Oklahoma House of Representatives yesterday while the members were voting on a section of an election law designed to take the place of the famous "grandfather law" which recently was declared unconstitutional by the United States supreme court because in effect it disfranchised the negro population of the state.

Partial feeling over the new measure finally culminated in a near riot, precipitated by charges of corruption and the passing of the lie between members during which ink bottles and paperweights were used as weapons. A serious affray seemed inevitable as Democrats massed and advanced toward the Republicans and Socialists. Arthur H. Geissler, chairman of the Republican state central committee, was knocked insensible by Representative Lorise Bryant of Big Heart, Osage county.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach trouble.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with indigestion, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

SAYS DRINK LEMONADE FOR RHEUMATISM

Relief from rheumatism and sciatica can be obtained by drinking lemonade and avoiding alcoholic drinks.

To get rid of this stubborn disease, however, to stop the twinges, pain and swelling, and drive the poisonous accumulations from the joints and muscles, all generously-inclined druggists will tell you to take half a teaspoonful of Rheuma daily until all misery ceases.

Rheuma is a powerful remedy, because only a powerful remedy can overcome such a terrible disease; but Rheuma acts speedily—the first dose taken and you'll know that you will soon be your healthy, happy self again.

The Red Cross Pharmacy and all druggists know that Rheuma will do, for they sell a great deal of it and guarantee that two 30-cent bottles will overcome rheumatic agony or money back—Adv.

EDUCATORS MEET IN DETROIT THIS WEEK

National Educational Association and 21 Auxiliary Organizations Called People from All Points of the United States.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 21.—Educators from all parts of the country arrived in Detroit to-day for the week of conferences and conventions under the auspices of the National Educational Association. Twenty-one subsidiary and allied bodies of the association are to have gatherings, much of the work being preliminary to the general convention of the organization in New York City next July.

The chief meetings of the week will be held by the department of superintendence of the National Education association and the National Council of Education. The former is headed by M. P. Shawkey, state superintendent of schools in West Virginia, and the latter by Robert J. Aleay, president of the University of Maine. Other organizations, with their presiding officers, which will take part in the week's activities include:

Conferences on Normal Schools, Livingston, C. Lord, Charleston, Ill., State Normal school, chairman; Educational Press Association of America, John MacDonald, Topeka, Kan., president; National Society for the Study of Education, Randall J. Condon, superintendent of Cincinnati schools, president; American School Peace league, Randall J. Condon, Cincinnati, president; Council of State Departments of Education, Thomas E. Finegan, assistant state commissioner of New York, chairman; Conference on Rural and Agricultural Education, George A. Works, Cornell university, chairman; National Federation of State Teachers' Associations, Charles H. Fos, superintendent of Reading, Pa., schools, president; National Council of Primary Education, Ella V. Dobbis, University of Missouri, chairman; Society of College Teachers of Education, Charles H. Judd, University of Chicago, president; National Association of State Supervisors and Inspectors of Rural Schools, Lester S. Ivins, Columbia university, president; American Home Economics association, Martha Van Rensselaer, Cornell university, president; Conference of Teachers of Education in State Universities, P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, president; National Association of Teachers' Agencies, A. F. Pease, Boston, president; National Council of Teachers of English, Edwin M. Hopkins, University of Kansas, president; National Vocational Guidance association, Jesse B. Davis, Grand Rapids, Mich., president; School Garden Association of America, Van Evrie Kilpatrick, New York City, president; International Kindergarten union, Lucy Wheeler, Boston, chairman; National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Associations, Mrs. Fred Schuchman, Philadelphia, president; National Association of Executive and Administrative Women in Education, Lucy K. Cole, Seattle, president.

Registration and assignments to hotels and boardinghouses occupied the managers of the convention yesterday. Because several of the organizations will not meet until Wednesday or later it was expected that this work would continue for several days.

The first of the meetings were to be held this morning, when the Society of College Teachers of Education and the Council of State Departments of Education opened. The latter will conclude its sessions this afternoon but the former will extend through Tuesday morning. The National Vocational Guidance association starts this afternoon and the National Society for the Study of Education and the National Council of Education begin their activities this evening.

"Thrifty" is to be the topic for the National Council of Education at its initial session and nine speakers are to discuss it in its relation to country life, industry, health and hygiene, banking, conservation, the home, and men's organizations, such as labor unions, commercial associations and similar bodies. This discussion will be a sequel to a public school essay contest on "Thrifty" which closed with January. Prize winners will be selected from each community, county and state, and the 10 best in each state will be considered in awarding a national prize. It is estimated that 20,000 school children wrote on the subject.

The Department of Superintendence will begin its sessions Tuesday evening. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, has been announced as the principal speaker, his subject being "What Is Going On in the World." The department will hold meetings up to Friday evening. The late Thursday session has been set aside as "Schoolmaster-Governor Evening," with Governor Woodbridge N. Ferris, Michigan; Frank H. Willis, O., and Martin G. Brambaugh, Pennsylvania, invited as speakers.

Luncheons, dinners and receptions by the dozen have been planned for the visiting pedagogues. Alumni of various universities and colleges will conduct some of these social affairs and women's clubs, commercial associations and public school organizations of Detroit will look after others. Among the entertainments will be a Shakespearean pageant by pupils of the Detroit Central high school, entitled, "The Passing Show of 1616." Various industrial establishments of the city will be thrown open for inspection during the week and all educational institutions of the city will also be on view.

News has been received of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Tiltonson of Worcester, Mass., formerly of this town. Mrs. Tiltonson will be remembered as Miss Clara Badger.

SAFETY FIRST IS GENERAL SLOGAN

Practically Every Activity of the Government in the Conserving of Human Life is Demonstrated in Exhibition in Washington.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—Practically every activity of the government in the conserving of human life is described or demonstrated in the safety first exhibition opened in the United States national museum to-day to continue a week. It is the first exhibition of its kind ever held by the government and shows what the various government departments and other organizations are doing in the way of the safety first movement by rendering less dangerous many industries, making travel on land and sea hazardous and in general increasing the public in the essentials of the movement. The idea originated with the bureau of mines which already has done so much toward making the lives of workers in the mining industry more secure.

Cooperating in the exhibit are these government and semi-official bureaus and organizations: The bureau of standards, coast and geodetic survey, bureau of lighthouses, steamboat inspection service and bureau of navigation of the department of commerce; the bureau of medicine and surgery, bureau of steam engineering, bureau of ordinance and bureau of construction and repairs, of the navy department; the weather bureau and the forest service, of the department of agriculture; the bureau of labor statistics and the children's bureau, of the department of labor; the bureau of mines, the reclamation service, the Indian office, the geological survey, and the bureau of education, of the interior department; the public health service, and the coast guard service, of the treasury department; the medical service of the war department; the interstate commerce commission; the American National Red Cross society and the police department of the District of Columbia.

Life-saving apparatus used by the coast guard service in rescuing persons from shipwrecks is shown and explained. A breeches buoy worked by coast guards exactly as the device is used in taking people off wrecked vessels are interesting exhibits. Guns used in throwing lines across the wrecked vessel are shown, together with lifeboats of the old surfboat type, and the modern motor surfboat, practically unsinkable and self-healing.

The exhibit of the department of commerce's bureau of navigation includes models of wireless used on ocean-going vessels as well as ashore. A chart accompanying this exhibit shows that during last year 25 vessels clearing from United States ports and required to carry wireless apparatus met with disaster, but that only two lives were lost.

The children's bureau exhibit shows the relationship existing between infant mortality and poor living conditions. In its exhibit the steamboat inspection service points out that by reason of the efficiency of its inspectors in 1915 only one life was lost out of 2,872,411 passengers carried on the steam vessels of the United States, inland and coastwise as well as ocean-going.

The work of the coast and geodetic survey is shown in models and charts, among the models being one of the unique wire drags devised by the survey for locating sunken wrecks and submerged rocks that might prove menaces to navigation.

How the lighthouse bureau protects and conserves human life is shown by means of models of lighthouses, light vessels, buoys, submarine bells, and fog signals, such as the bureau maintains at dangerous points.

The work of the bureau of standards in educating the public in regard to fire-proof and fire-resisting materials for construction is illustrated by a comprehensive exhibit with accompanying charts. The bureau of mines demonstrates its life-saving apparatus, such as the pulmonary, for reviving victims from smoke and gas; masks for protection against mine gases and the smoke in burning mines. The bureau has taught first aid to more than 1,000,000 miners in the country, the result being a notable reduction in the death rate among miners.

Instruction as to pure water supplies and their location is one of the contributions of the geological survey to the safety first movement of the government; and this, with other activities of the survey along the line of conservation of human life, is included in the survey's exhibit.

The reclamation service's work in developing vast tracts of arid lands in the West and converting it into fertile and cultivable farms by means of immense irrigation works is shown in maps, models and pictures.

Just how the weather bureau works in sending out storm warnings and warnings against floods, as well as in its general weather forecast, is shown in detail. The safety first work of the interstate commerce commission is also shown by means of charts, models and diagrams. The commission by compelling the railroads of the country to adopt safety appliances has brought about a tremendous reduction in the number of wrecks, the number of persons killed in this manner last year being 222 out of more than 1,000,000 passengers carried, a reduction of 16.2 per cent from 1914.

The forest service has an interesting exhibit showing its system of fire patrols, fire lookouts, field telephone lines and wireless, by means of which the forest rangers are able to warn persons living in and near the national forests of fires many hours before the fires approach.

The first aid of the American National Red Cross association in the affairs of everyday life, and the organization's work in times of calamity are shown in a large exhibit.

The safety work of the coast guard service, which includes the revenue cutter service and life saving service, in 1915, resulted in the rescue of more than 1,200 persons imperiled at sea and saved property valued at $1,000,000.

Preventative work of the public health service in stopping the entrance of plague and other diseases at ports of the country; the anti-typhoid inoculation of the bureau of medicine and surgery of the navy which has eradicated typhoid from the navy, similar work of the army medical corps and the safety first work of the Washington police department are shown in models, charts and diagrams.

FOR BRONCHITIS, PAINFUL COUGH, WHOOPING COUGH AND COLDS

Cheapest Remedy Made at Home—128 Teaspoonfuls for 50 Cents

When in need of a remedy for the treatment of bronchial affections, such as bronchitis, whooping cough, croup, stubborn coughs, colds or hoarseness, don't simply ask the druggist for a "cough medicine," but get the best. Tell him to give you Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectant, instead of being induced into buying something else purely on the strength of some testimonials or the exaggerated claims of the manufacturer. The same "money back" guarantee goes with every bottle of this remedy sold by E. A. Drown as does with Dr. Schiffmann's famous Asthmador, and your money will be refunded, if it does not give perfect satisfaction; in fact, even more, if it is not found the best remedy ever used for these affections. In buying this new remedy, besides securing the guarantee these druggists give, it will likewise be found the most economical to use, for the reason that one bottle (50 cents' worth) makes a full pint (128 teaspoonfuls) of the most excellent cough medicine, after being mixed at home with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water. One bottle will probably, therefore, be sufficient for a whole family's supply the entire winter, while the same quantity of the old, ordinary, ready-made kinds of medicine would cost between $2 and $3. It is prepared from strictly harmless plants, contains absolutely no chloroform, opium, morphine or any other narcotic or injurious drugs, as do most cough remedies, and it can therefore be given to children with perfect safety. It is pleasant to take and children are fond of it. Absolutely no risk whatever is run in buying this remedy Schiffmann, Prop., St. Paul, Minn.—Adv. under the above positive guarantee. R. J.
